Why stop at nickels? Get them to give you $100s, then you could go buy yourself a Space Shuttle.

Space shuttles are antiquated. Why, I even recently read that NASA is scrounging around on e-Bay for old (really) old machines that use 8086 processors, so they have a stockpile in case one ever fails on their shuttles.

8086 processors are... old.

Like, they're probably more expensive then a common newer processor because they're not made anymore.
