
Subject: Re: Playing on LAN

Posted by Kanezor on Sat, 08 Oct 2005 21:04:23 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Terminator 101, there comes a point where you have to sit back and think "why the fuck am I spending lots of time and money trying to solve this issue?"

So, let's go back to square one:

- 1) Connect both computers directly to each other via a crossover cable
- 2) Make sure each computer has a different IP address on the same subnet (for example, your laptop can be 192.168.0.1 and your desktop can be 192.168.0.2, both with a subnet mask of 255.255.255.0, and the gateway doesn't matter since neither is connecting to the internet)
- 3) Make sure each computer has Renegade installed
 - 3a) Different CD key for each
 - 3b) Both patched to the same version (preferably 1.037)

See if that works.
