I believe in God on top of everything. However, here's something to think about:

Not IF, but WHEN extraterrestrial life is discovered (because we're obviously not the only ones in the universe...that'll be a huge waste of space,) wouldn't that kill a lot of people's faith in God? Since on the Bible, it only talks about God creating life on Earth.

My other thought is that God put the stars so far away to torment men knowing they'll never be able to reach 'em.

What if, space does have an edge, but all the bends in space prevent anyone [capable of FTL travel] from reaching it?
