

---

Subject: Re: EA Partners with XWIS Community Service

Posted by rm5248 on Wed, 12 Oct 2005 01:08:41 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Blazer wrote on Tue, 11 October 2005 18:23 Think of it like this...would Microsoft allow some third party "fansites" to take over control of the windows update servers? Why wouldn't they? The answer is the same for EA, although the scenario seems very different. It's all the same to the lawyers

Err.. That's not what I meant. I mean that there's like a 'support' department on the website, with different categories. Click on "Renegade support" and it'll pop up different websites where you can get help(I.E. renforums.com) so that the people who are running XWIS don't spend 5234 hours a day answering technical support problems. The fansites wouldn't take control of the updates, they would just help to disperse the traffic looking for problems to their technical support problems.

---