Sir Phoenixx wrote on Sun, 16 October 2005 07:19 To get the Dropship working requires the unit loading menu to function, and to have the Dropship actually deliver the units. The unit loading menu is supposed to popup before a game, you choose the amount of units and types from a list depending on the amount of credits available, the Dropship then is supposed to deliver these units at certain times during the game.

That is not what I am trying to do, I am talking about building one on a helipad if you tell it to move it trys to land and than dose the retarded pilot thing. It keeps going up and down and going everywhere but will not land.

Although if you put a hover MRLS nearb it, it lands on the MRLS?
