kawolskyDo you drive away and get lagged back through a wall?

lol...

I kinda drove straight in to a wall, don't think lag had anything to do with that though...

My dad just took his car to the local Halfords and they helped him chose a wicked cd player and fitted it for him and now his is ace...

As for replaceing the speakers I belive you should take it to a garage if your not to sure about it because it can get kinda tricky and when I saw my dad mwss with the insides of his doors he had a hell of a problem getting it all back together again.
