school is the most important thing in your life for creating a future. Maths is used in IT. They are doing what they think is best for you, and yes it seems unfair...but trust me, I ditched at least half of my last 2 years of school. My parents grounded me for 9months...and they were too lazy to take all my electronics out of my room, so they cut off all the plugs....(thing is, in physics in England they teach you how to re-wire plugs...never saw that coming)

I am lucky that im a smartass...because if it wasn't for the fact i can retain a large pool and knowledge inside my head i would have failed everything, I did no coursework what so ever for my exams (and that is 60% of the grade) and the lowest I got was a C
