
Subject: Re: Global Warming: Katrina, Rita, Wilma: Whats next?

Posted by Nukelt15 on Fri, 28 Oct 2005 19:24:02 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Quote:Frankly i could care less, why should i do work because you want edv. I know we are screwed in 100-250 years so wtf do I care if you know it.

1. You don't know. You think you know we are screwed in 100-250 years. You have no data to back that up as fact. Your unsupported opinion has no value as proof, as much as you might want to believe that it does.
 2. If you could care less, you wouldn't be so upset about the whole affair.
 3. Dismissing others as ignorant, presumably due to a lack of actual data supporting your own case, is not a very solid argument. The standard response to that is usually along the lines of "Well, if you care so little, shut up and go away."
 4. The burden of proof in science is on the person challenging the status quo. That is a historical precedent that has been confirmed time and time again- Galileo, Newton, Einstein, etc. The reason why you should work to produce evidence supporting your claim is because it is an as-of-yet unproven hypothesis, not an established theory.
-