We are just asking you to tell Norton to ignore SVKP.sys because it's falsely detecting it as a virus. RenGuard has been through the hands of over 15,000 people and until this Norton update, no one has ever found one bit of suspect activity. Furthermore we invite anyone to find any sort of hacktool/rootkit code in SVKP.SYS.

i understand this - as i stated before i am afraid to make nortons allow this as some virus/trojans apparently used the same program u guys use to encrypt - if i force nortons to allow svkp then wouldnt it also allow a virus or what ever using the same thing in ???
