RenGuard startup is SLOW, and it gets annoying. Loading the GUI, webpage and connecting to the servers all at the same time slows the startup down a fair bit.

The background, title banner and sidebar graphics could just be part of the program, so all that needs to be downloaded each startup is TEXT (way faster).

Having it connect to servers AFTER Renegade is clicked would be better, or you could delay it by a few seconds to give the program a chance to load. Watching this white box thing slowly load it's controls and border is annoying.

RG being gay:

Having it connect AFTER you click means you could have a textbox to change the nick to login with if you need to.

And the whole window is too big.

RG sexified:

And when it's connected it minimizes and Renegade opens.

We want a Renguard Lite!
