How much time do you spend web browsing other sites, or web surfing in general? I know people who are doctors and lawyers with schedules 400% more busy than most people, and they still find time to send me an email with some stupid spam link from a website they visited.

You'd be suprised. I used to be a member to like 15 forums at one point, 7 of them I was a moderator or higher on....kinda annoying to surf each forum, then go back to the first and reply to the replies....(I was a forum lurker...so what!?) I once spent like 3 hours repeatidly replying to one dude on this one forum....it was like a chat room

OFF TOPIC: When the hell are you gonna get your PC fixed?!
