It uses enough CPU to make my AMD 3000+ get constant FPS-spikes. And yes I used it. And yes, it has let virusses get passed on me.

Maybe you think and read before you post?

And maybe you could think we aren't all that lucky to get software for free?

You are completely free not to take my advice, that's why it's called advice.

Then I guess you are the unlucky one. Sorry, but it works fine for me. It uses absolutely no CPU for me, I suppose your computer just sucks. And again, read my post before you contradict yourself saying "OMKLG YOU DIDNTT RESD MY POST", I said I have had absolutely NO HISTORY of viruses slipping through. It is one of those problems that exists between the keyboard and the chair. I can see where you're trying to attack me. You took one basic thing I said, and attacked it. That one basic thing was correcting you that I got it for free, then you immediately attack me on that. Getting desperate? I would think so. No thanks, I'm not going to run Norton on a laptop, I like my computer JUST fine how it is.
