A coincidence, I have never heard of XeonTeam, nor am I him/her. (I thought you meant a collective group until I re-read your post).

This avatar was made for me by a very talented photoshop user called l4thal. I should put the sig up to match it too.

I hope Xeon had good spelling/grammar, because I'd hate to think I type badly

DJM wrote on Sat, 19 November 2005 09:52he has some technical knowledge from what I've seen so far

Thanks I try to learn/help when I can.

DJM wrote on Sat, 19 November 2005 09:52he was the word "tek" in his avatar, and the name isn't very imaginative.

Thats harsh I like tek.

DJM wrote on Sat, 19 November 2005 09:52XeonTeam registered here January 2005, so did this dude. The register dates are 9 days apart.

Again, pure coincidence.

DJM wrote on Sat, 19 November 2005 09:52And as for the i.p. difference, we all know he has alot of technical know-how so I wouldn't doubt he knows how to change his i.p. address.

I do know how to change my IP, but that won't change my *ubs.qsi.net.nz, I'd have to change ISP's for that. (Unless I proxied)

Old user TEKNIK = XeonTeam, hence the tek similarity. And whenever somebody registers multiple names, they don't bother thinking of imaginative names, hence "light".

As for the spelling and grammar, it's very good for the most part but not perfect, the same with XeonTeam.

XeonTeam was (and most likely still is) a cheat maker for renegade, hence the technical know-how.

In my opinion, it's just too many similarites to be one big co-incidence.
