That is a stupid statement. CW's are all about teamwork and you state that you work in team on your own in public games. That seems pretty impossible to me unless u have multiple personnalities or something... You're not gonna change a 10v10 game all by yourself, even if you play with complete n00bs.

I got some CW-experience and i like playing CW's now and then WITH MY COMMUNITY. But then we're speaking of 3v3 up to 9v9 games. Do you know how it feels to have to lead a team of 8 different persons to work together in a CW? It's freaking difficult and it requires all those other people to respect you and to listen to what you tell them and then execute it at best.

1v1 and 2v2 games frankly - and I did play lots of them - blow. Renegade is a teamplay game.

Now if you really want to do something clan-related, join in an existing clan (on clanwars.cc or not) and try to maket hem better. And you'll probably learn something yourself then too. But you'll have to change attitude to be able to stay in any decent clan longer than some weeks...
