I'd just like to say a few things....

#1. light posted this to be humorous not for it to spread into some mind boggling debate about whether or not people should run RG.

#2. No matter what you guys say to defend yourselves it's hopeless...People can and will cheat on Renegade no matter what you guys do, you have said it yourself; Nothing is perfect nor will it ever be. Renguard or not cheaters will exist.

#3. Take some time to think about the many contradictory statements you guys have brought upon yourselves while trying to debate. It's quite pathetic really...

#4. I don't understand why players such as ourselves should download Renguard, we are experienced and have talent in the game, most people know that already and leave us to have our fun; often times carrying on a joyful conversation while doing so.

#5. Is this debate about running Renguard or who the !forcerg command should be able to be accessed by? Last I checked all servers on Renegade had their own rules and own policy on how to run things, correct me if I'm wrong please?

Last but not least #6. Explain this infamous logic everyone is talking about as to why people should use RG. Renguard contains flaws in it like any other program that could be made, running it or not running it tests will occur throughout the rest of the time that Renegade stays alive.

I would like to comment that Renguard has come a long ways and does allow in some cases for people to enjoy the game a little more. In no way do I have any problems with Renguard besides the fact of how it brainwashes many people into thinking RG= "he doesn't cheat." I am with many others that choose not to run it because I am cheat free and have been cheat free. It's a video game.....Enjoy it, and quit debating about some game "client-side bot that doesn't allow people to cheat"
