

---

Subject: Re: Why not open source?

Posted by Crimson on Tue, 03 Jan 2006 18:53:12 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Well, it's entirely too easy to see exactly what RenGuard is doing by using RegMon, FileMon, and a packet sniffer. You really think we could get away with over 20,000 installations without someone noticing if we were doing something we don't disclose?

Also, regarding swearing: I personally don't have a problem with swearing and swear often myself. I don't generally use foul language when I'm trying to communicate something in a professional manner. But, if you are THAT offended at reading foul words on your screen, then you need to take a hard look at yourself and think about why on earth you are upset by it. I don't have a good justifiable reason to censor "bad words".

---