You are a

Social Liberal (63% permissive)

and an...

Economic Moderate
(50% permissive)

You are best described as a:

Centrist

You exhibit a very well-developed sense of Right and Wrong and believe in economic fairness.

My law/whatever:

Quote:The content of all "art" in all forms, including (but not limited to), TV/Movies, music, video games, books, paintings/scultures, etc. can not be censored or altered by 3rd parties (a Network TV station, or a childrens museum, or anyone else that isn't the creator) for any purposes what-so-ever, and the creators of said art can not be forced to self-censor by a 3rd party. The only alteration that is allowed by 3rd parties would be the addition of commercial breaks in Movies.

A movie has too much violence/gore, nudity/sex, cursing/swearing? Either don't show it, or put a disclaimer before the movie.

I've noticed a lot lately that networks are lightening up on censoring movies. "God Damn" isn't really censored any more, I've seen "Shit" show up a few times (even on the History channel a couple times), "Fuck" was uncensored a couple times on one of the major networks (and the History channel). I've also recently seen the original Die Hard on a network TV channel without any censoring or editing. And I've also saw the middle finger many times on network TV. (and again, at least once on the History channel)
