

---

Subject: Re: OT: It's now illegal to annoy someone online

Posted by warranto on Tue, 10 Jan 2006 04:54:59 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

now, the question remains: What qualifies as "Identify yourself" is it enough to get an annoying letter from the IRS, or does the employee have to identify himself directly?

"Hello I am from the Internal Revenue Service, and we are emailing you to tell you that you owe us money!"

"This is so annoying."

*Lawsuit occurs*

---