Right. So let me get this straight. You go into a clan part of the forum (even though you aren't in a clan and don't want to join one) and you specifically join topics that's titled "recruiting" or such (remember, you don't even want to join) and you go ahead and talk to some person about grammar even though the guy could be 12 for all you know. (You'll find that it's probably around 80%+ kids at around that age use the same 'net "slang") Not that I don't see how this has anything to do with clans, but K. You go out of your way to insult people you don't even know and have no evidence whether or not a clan is "good" by your standards. the main point of being a clan is just playing together, which includes being in the same server; which sometimes mean that they will eventually be on the same team. I don't really know or care about your luck with clans, but I've played and been in clans where they'd be more than just happy to play a game together, just for the sake of playing.

Nobody asked you to come to this topic. The only purpose you even clicked to get in this one was for you to criticize whatever you could about the clan. Though I don't know what you were thinking with connecting the whole grammar thing with integrity of a clan
