Let me show you this, if you don't mind. If you wanna know where the name ECXian came from, it came from a user named Acolyte got thought he'd avoid the horribly simple remote I set up to kick him under that name. Something along the lines of "if * in ? says !xian, attempt to //kick these screenmes." I don't get why it's so important to you.

If somebody is going by your names on various channels and registering under them on cheating sites and playing Renegade with the same names as you, you've got a serious problem on your hands. He's copying your typing style, methods of argument, and has an in-depth knowledge of how you operate so much that he's convinced me that he's the same as you!

If you want, I bet I can bring a bunch of witnesses in who saw your pages about cheating sites where you were registered under your other names, that you were posting a lot under your *yet other* names. In fact, you posting about these cheating sites prompted a bunch of people, including my old roommate, to register at those cheating sites and mock the script kiddie techno-tards there and allow the moderators know that all the admins and mods at the site are clueless asshats.

Read the line below this very carefully. You get it after pressing that awesome button I first noted at the very start of this post. Seeing as how you frequent at least one forum beyond this, I'd expect you to know about the "edit" button.
