Okay. I played with it today and had no problems!

Although, the laptop upstairs is mysteriously not connected to the internet anymore. So, to make it work we tried setting the wires and routers to their previous setup and it turns out that the wireless router doesn't even get a connection anymore (so we can't use it, it seems). Either it broke, or its settings got reset or something...

Anyways, at least I got one problem solved now -- and headed straight into a wall since right now I can only use this computer since the wireless router won't even detect a connection...
