Granted. From the lack of schooling you get extremely stupid. From all the games the only knowledge you now know is from the video games you play. You become so insanely stupid, that you believe you are in your video game. After awhile of "being in your video game" you decide you want to be in Renegade. You think you are in Renegade and you get shot by a sniper. Being as stupid as you are from the lack of schooling, your brain tricks your organs into thinking you got shot. They all fail, and you die.

I wish I didn't have to take the Marksmanship class in JROTC on Monday.
