Is there any point to debating politics/hot issues?

Have you ever changed someone views/opinions on a topic in this forum by debating?

What I'm getting at is that you can post things on a forum about someone wanting to ban violent games or Canada or drugs or politics or whatever, and people can debate/argue about it with other people all they want too, but I don't think anyone ever gets their views changed by the other people on this forum. Have you ever heard someone say something like, "Oh, I changed my mind and decided that you are right about this and I was wrong."

Any thoughts on the reason to debate on a forum like this? The only ones I can think of, is that you get some entertainment out of it, and you might learn piece of news or so.
