i wish i didnt have shool tomorrow.Oh come on. Any first grader could have come up with your wish grant. There was no heart in it at all.

A sudden snowflurry comes to your area. It snows you in, except for a perfect walkway to your driveway and then to your school, which isn't cancelled. The ice on the road causes this big car crash, and all of your meanest teachers are sent to the hospital, while all of your nicest teachers end up stuck waiting for the mess to be cleared up. You somehow got lost during all of this, (your ride) driving the wrong way. You didn't know anything weird had happened (excepting the snowflurry) until late that evening when your mother confronts you as to why you weren't at school. She didn't know either ... it was your sister who had told her (and you) about what had happened. Her and her big network of phone friends.

I wish I had more good music.
