what? being able to point directly where u want to shoot would suck? how is that any different from actually pointing a gun at ur screen, its even got a trigger button underneath like Z on the n64 controller.

so you would rather nintendo stick with the same old crap like microsoft and sony? using an analog stick to look around? The old controllers for fps is the worst ever. I picked up xbox 360 in a store and there was a world war2 style fps playing, i didnt even get a minute of gameplay out of it because i just couldnt control where i was pointing or how fast i was turning.

when ps1 and n64 came out for me it was the best thing since sliced bread. Gaming had changed forever. Right now i dont see anything changing except graphic updates. I overheard some guy talkin just last week saying all a consol is, is a graphics card. Only differences i see in consols now are things like xbox live and harddrives and dvd players... thing is i already have a pc...
