It all depends on what you want. If you've got a lot of ambient noises or family/roommates, then headphones are the way to go.

If you don't care about what others might hear, and can afford a good set of speakers, then do it.

I myself use headphones, though I do have speakers. My room is above my parents' room, and if I were to use my speakers, they'd hear my music & games going boom boom all through the night. Mom used to complain about it all the time before I got my headphones.
