Only difference with Goztow is that he has tried to correct other people's spelling and grammar on numerous occasions, which he all of people is in no position to do.

If you would actually read DJM's posts, he makes a good point. And besides, if English is your second(third, fourth, etc etc.) language, you can always use help with spelling and grammar. So stfu.

Yes, a dictionary helps you write perfect English sentences both gramar and vocabulary-wise. Also the fact everyone actually makes an effort in speaking English doesn't make the slightest impression on you?

I actually agree with the fact I shouldn't have corrected him there.
