because only the stupid people rush out to the front of GDI's base if GDI plans to get that many tanks. You're best when they're all spread out and they can all shoot at one tank... though, it should be more like two artys with no techs and the rest light tanks. Really don't need any more than two arts. Just have them be at the back and pound away, though, if you have spare infantry might want to use some repairs for the arts
