This thread is kind of going off topic anyways. The point of this was to mock Darkdemin's quote of saying Hezbollah commits terrorist activities against Lebanon which i already proved was wrong.

Everyone is entitled to their opinion. If you think they are terrorists i seriously couldn't care. Most people who say they are terrorists just say that because Bush said so etc...

We all know that you can't believe everything any political leader says and Bush is no exception. I've met some people from Hezbollah before, i've seen them before, i've formed my own conclusion about them and i am not afraid to say i owe my independence to them and that is why i respect them.

My dad used to be in the army and has told me stories about Israeli army (they actually occupied some villages when the war was at it's worst) and he has some pretty horrific stories about them.

Lot's of people who comment on these subjects have never seen a gun before, never seen a tank, or even artillery. I have and i have my own opinion about Hezbollah and Israel through personal experience.

Like i said again this thread is going off topic. If you hate Hezbollah or like them it's totally up to you. The point of my initial post was replying to the comment of Hezbollah committing terrorist activities against Lebanon. When i read it i was like wtf.
