AmunRa wrote on Mon, 01 May 2006 07:28I've been told recently, especially by my own clan, that this somehow involves me in one way or another, according to Crimson or something. I honestly have absolutly no idea what is going on, I haven't played Renegade in months! I was told that she tracked down my IP, and a few of the attacks led to me. Like I said, I've been away from Ren so long I have no idea whats going on. This is the second god damned time I have been falsely accused for bullshit like this, and I have a person I know who is likely to frame me for it too. If anyone knows ANYTHING about this, and this includes crimson, please post here as soon as possible.

If I had actually done this, I would definitely been smart enough to use a proxy

Are you that gullible in real life? If you are, then you will be hugging trees in no time, or strapping a bomb to yourself.

You cant believe everything you hear about people in this community. In this case about crimson. Chances are high that the person that told you this, doesnt like crimson. Probably because they are Jealous of her. They were just trying to spread lies and hatred among the community, so people can join their cause. Like a type of propaganda.

JS i will forgive you, though i really look down to what you did. Its a real low and cowardly thing to have done. Myself being one of the people affected by your attacks, i am quite frankly disgusted that someone would sink that low.

Thats all i have to say.
