The real question still doesn't seem to have been answered unless I am really missing something, why? - was it really just a half assed attempt to get more traffic? surely continuing to hand out mod positions and hosting a decent server should be enough - our servers are rarely empty and we havn't needed to do anything other than be a friendly community to keep people playing.

Sad to hear this js, always seemed like one of the good guys to me but perhaps I was wrong
