ya, what had happened about the: not showing any errors in the top part of the screen, was that it uses internet explorer to show the information. and at the time, my ie had 'broken' and some files were missing, effectively rendering ie, useless, it couldn't load webpages, nothing, so, all the games that use ie to show info in a panel about errors etc, wouldn't show either... but i somehow, managed to get it working once again, and apparently, there was a file left over from the modification that i put on, and it edited a main file, (making it say i had a problem) once again ty for the help
