There's something definitely better for me about the XBox controller than the PS3 one, and I've played on both. I don't know if it's the placement of the thumbsticks or the thickness of the controller, but it's more comfortable and easier for me to maneuver with the sticks. The buttons seem to be in a slightly better position relative to the rest too.

Just to highlight how biased I am, I'm really looking forward to Halo 3...
