In reply to the OP, no...I seriously doubt a third world war will happen in our lifetimes. However, when it comes to another international conflict...it's a matter of when, not if. It seems to be as inevitable as death itself IMO.

As a side note some people think we're in world war 3 already...? I don't get this...I would like it if someone who shares this sentiment could clarify exactly where, why and how this "third world war" is taking place.
