Thought some of you might be interested...

Here are some renders from my final year project at uni, the project was about environment creation based on inspiration I had from nature, man made objects and various ideas about growth.

I havn't had a chance to put them up on my site properly yet so you guys are getting the first one of the first peeks

I did do an animation too but it's 300Mb haven't had a chance to compress it yet.

Edit: Yes, the construction robot is fully animatable and mechanically sound
