Oh, so the truth comes out. You're an overprotective boyfriend who jumps down the throat of every person who dares to even give her the slightest of a dirty look. It's the internet. What people think of her there holds absolutely no face value. Do you realize how many people hate/dislike me? I've lost count, and yet I don't care.

Take a chill pill and just ignore the whole situation. One or two people's opinion of your girlfriend is:

Not the general census

Just some online moron's view of someone else online

Nothing to cry over
