
Subject: C&C Blue Island Update
Posted by xpontius on Tue, 13 May 2003 16:29:39 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Quote:Aircraftkiller
Commander
Member # 17

Posted: Tue May 13, 2003 1:03 pm

Dante wrote:

funny thing is, when i goto the beach, on a sunday morning for example, say about 5 am, just before the sun rises... there really isn't alot of eye candy...

but, i guess if you want me to dump a bunch of crappy dsapo objects here and there to entertain you, i guess i will, btw, there is a huge mountain in the middle with a tunnel system inside it.

get up before the crack of dawn, go walk on a beach, and tada... it isn't vibrant with alot of life....

btw, trees are coming, this is just pics of the terrain and some light tests

Realism doesn't always work in a game, especially not in a game where tank cannons only fire about 200 feet, and where bullets travel at light-speed.

Keep that in mind when designing maps. You're not making a painting, you're making something to be used in said unrealistic game.

So in one of my maps, Pacific, 2very....tiny desert islands with a golden gate scale bridge in between would describe that right?

Anyway, the map pics are pretty nice, Dante. Work on that eye candy though
