
Subject: Re: funny...

Posted by Aircraftkiller on Tue, 13 May 2003 20:50:44 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

CarlAircraftkillerDantefunny thing is, when i goto the beach, on a sunday morning for example, say about 5 am, just before the sun rises... there really isn't alot of eye candy...

but, i guess if you want me to dump a bunch of crappy dsapo objects here and there to entertain you, i guess i will, btw, there is a huge mountain in the middle with a tunnel system inside it.

get up before the crack of dawn, go walk on a beach, and tada... it isn't vibrant with alot of life....

btw, trees are coming, this is just pics of the terrain and some light tests

Realism doesn't always work in a game, especially not in a game where tank cannons only fire about 200 feet, and where bullets travel at light-speed.

Keep that in mind when designing maps. You're not making a painting, you're making something to be used in said unrealistic game.

i think its obvious he means realistic in CONTEXT dont you? as in the QUALITY of the work is at a HIGH level of REALISM. Like Reborn. The QUALITY of the models and textures are astounding.

Imffao ROOFLES

You just made me laugh for the first time today. Reborn's models are not skinned properly. Almost every vehicle is done with a UVW map of a camo pattern, you can see how it repeats on a lot of vehicles including the Juggernaut, Mammoth Mark 2, and the Orca Transport.

Yes, I have the beta, I doubt you do... so STFU n00b.
