Ok, it looks like me and Jer are gonna go with most of the setup Exdeath provided, swapping the 3800+ for a 4200+ and we need a different video card. While that is a placeholder card, we need something a little bit more substantial. That 6800XT is quite a bit boiled down from the other 6800s. It has 8 pixel pipelines instead of 12 and a few other performance detriments.

We're like sweet! Perfect! Wrong :/ It's out of stock. What are the odds eh? Anyhow can you guys suggest anything in the range of performance of that without being ridiculous? I might just break down and get a single 7950GX2 and be done with video cards for a while.
