If your virus scanner displays RG's protection as a virus, then you should uninstall that shit and seriously start thinking of acquiring a decent virus scanner. False positives is about the worst thing a virusscanner can do. Epecially that Norton shit: get rid of it (take my advice, do it!).

Learn to read son, he said he knows it's not a virus!!

And I agree with him, trying to install Renguard is a huge headache and they make the program so much bigger and more extravagant than it should be. For example, on the renegade installation screen, on the part where I specify the folder

C:\Program Files\EA Games\Command & Conquer The First Decade\Command & Conquer Renegade\Renegade ,

I press OK because this is my renegade folder, yet the program says

Reneguard must be installed into your Renegade directory!

Could it be more stupid? Can anyone help me with this problem?
