RTsa wrote on Mon, 26 June 2006 13:08The Inquirer?

It was already confirmed that at least the AM2 opterons will have RHT. That means the rest of the chips at least have the capacity to support RHT. Whether they already have the technology on the current chips or not I don't know.

Right now it's only really going to benefit single threaded apps. But once 4+ core chips and 4x4 comes out it could benefit multithreaded apps as well.