I think if any country fired a missile at any other country they probably wouldn't be best pleased about it - talk about stating the obvious.

It's all just the media and government trying to keep everyone scared of various bogus "threats" so that you will support that retard Bush on his crusade to take over the world, lol.

If you look back through history you will see things that are comparable or even worse, we are living in historic times. You might ask why particularly these times are historic, just look around you look at all of the changes, madness, crazy politics (by that I mean the asshole politicians who called our troops in Iraq cold blooded killers, and those politicians who what to shut down the Gwontonomo-I don't know if I spelled this right prison, the politicians who keep bringing up those incidents where our troops killed innocent Iraqis, and there are many many more, like the North Koreans.) and you just can't leave out the damn media, who chooses to look at the negative and not the positive. We have companies who will pay you I believe it was $200 dollars if you had a micro chip inserted in you, now it is being thought of guns being controlled by these microchips, taxes on the American Interstate, in Texas you HAVE to have a tracking device in your car, and if you take it out or if you fiddle around with it, the police will catch you and fine you, or put you in jail, also you have to pay, something like 35 cents to go 1 2 3 or 4 miles on the Interstate, this is kind of old, I don't remember the details exactly, but if you want I can give you a websites to prove these things.
