

---

Subject: Re: Aircraftkiller?

Posted by Dave Anderson on Fri, 07 Jul 2006 03:07:35 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Well, I did take the time to read all the posts in that thread, and after doing so I came up with the conclusion that there really was no reason to post this thread and bring up old stuff like that. Now, don't get me wrong, I too was shocked at the way Aircraftkiller was acting in that thread, but the fact that the other people who posted in that thread just kept contributing to the childish posts in that thread doesn't exactly make them look any better than Aircraftkiller did in that thread. Aside from that, I believe that post is a couple months old, maybe less, and should be left where it was, in the past.

</End my opinion.>

Quote:He has seems to have lost it since the whole APB-girlfriend incident. Oh well, more entertainment for us.

I don't see how losing someone dear to you makes it entertaining for others. It's complete hipocracy when someone loses someone dear to them and others find it entertaining, only to turn around and lose someone dear to you and have people think that your situation is entertaining.

---