

---

Subject: Re: Firewall

Posted by Zion on Sat, 08 Jul 2006 13:55:50 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

One of the big british ones

I would consider a good FTP and mail software when i got my new system which will be a host of a small network but this is the only "decent" system in the house. I am currently behind a netgear router (i tryed linksys but it wouldnt let teamspeak through it) and i have Avast! AV and Lavasoft Ad-aware SE which scans the 280gb every month. I have Mozilla Firefox as my browser since IE got slower and slower. The reason i am looking for a decent firewall is because im in the modelling industry and have alot of very valuble data on my HDD's.

I will try Zone Alarm since many users here have had it and it hasnt let them down, for all they know...

Thank again, Merovingian

---