A lot of the scenes droned on for what seemed like hours, some of the music selection sucked, some of the special effects/slowdowns weren't centered around much more than "here's another super slow explosion that we're moving the camera around quickly!". A couple of the scenes were just corny. Some of the jokes were retarded. The story wasn't half as good or detailed as the first one. I don't want to get into explaining the scenes that sucked or anything, as I'm sure those who (like me) were dumb enough to reserve tickets and those who can't get a refund, don't want what little there was in the film that was worth watching, to be spoiled.
