
Subject: Re: hope none of you are them

Posted by Scythar on Sat, 15 Jul 2006 20:42:44 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Nukelt15 wrote on Sat, 15 July 2006 15:44A lot of people believe that hate is the worst of human emotions. I don't believe that is true- I think that the worst emotion a human being is capable of is not hate, but pity....

That is quite insightful. There's a reason the phrase "I pity you" is used a arguments a lot. In addition, its message is very clear, not perhaps to the one who says it, but to the receiver. It can very effectively make one feel they're somehow bad or insufficient. You might as well say "You ain't got what it takes". People should be careful with this word, it's quite high on the list of worst things to say to someone.

http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Spaghetti_monster