Yeah I was but now I can't research the parts. I've been waiting for the FX series processors to come down. 1800$ is a little insane for a processor... :/ I'm also now worried that my new computer wont work. How is it that a computer can still be broken when the only peice common between the two is the case What would stop my new computer from being broken from the start too? I replaced my Mobo, My HD, My Video Card, My Processor. I mean I've tried everything. I ran the MemTest Boot CD for like 4 hours on extensive settings, and tried memory from several other computers and tried my memory one chip at a time. I've run out of options and steam. I'm left with nothing.
