That's your choice, but here's a warning: all systems become obsolete VERY fast. Even if you buy a high-end PC you'll end up upgrading it in a while, the whole business just moves so fast it's hard to keep yourself up-to-date....this is especially true with notebooks, since it's harder/impossible to upgrade old parts one at a time. All it takes is one innovative breakthrough in GPU/CPU/RAM industry, and you're left with old technology. I'm betting no matter how good laptop you buy, it's average at best in 2 years when it comes to gaming.
