

---

Subject: Re: Haha.

Posted by Aircraftkiller on Mon, 31 Jul 2006 20:01:31 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

So if it was nothing new, what brought you to post about it here? Are you some sort of voyeur; does it bring you pleasure to feel as if you've hurt someone? My days of hurting over things like this passed long ago after I realized that people are not to be trusted. For as civilized as we are supposed to be, you can't even defend yourself without resorting to second hand information from someone that shouldn't have told you anything to begin with.

Of course, you don't care. Why should you? I called you an idiot. I said you were stupid... I bashed your works and shit all over them. But in response, you've done the same to me, and have repeatedly gone past that to attack my own personal life. None of you knew about this before Sarah decided, in her infinite wisdom, that it was a good idea to break my trust in her and spill secrets over the Internet to justify her hate and anger. She's since apologized, and realized what she was doing was completely and totally wrong; but that doesn't stop you, now does it? But that's okay, because you aren't hurting me... Just reaffirming what I already believed, that people like DarkDemin pretend to be Christian but can't even live up to simple life standards that it preaches. You say you follow Christ but when it comes down to it, all you follow is yourself and whatever makes you feel better. Not that I'm any better... But you're not going to find me digging around and attacking everything about you because I was so angry over you bashing my work.

There are things called acceptable responses... Those of us with a conscience know what they are. When you're hit, you hit back. If you're hit again, you continue to hit. That, or you walk away. That's how someone with morality deals with a situation... Defense in varying forms. When you're hit, you don't just take a chainsaw and start cutting off their arms so they can't ever hit you again. Forgive me if I'm wrong, but that's what a lot of you sound like and it's really not working on me. I'm the one who lives like this, not you, and if it affects you so terribly... I don't know what to say beyond "get a clue" and focus on yourselves. You look like a pack of hyenas, God only knows how you act in real life.

Quote:But no, you decided to divulge what happens to be one of the most disturbing things I have ever heard from you. I personally don't care what your sexual preference or gender may be. I just found this a good laugh and it could have stayed that way. If anyone is to blame for the outcome of this thread it is you. You're an idiot, good day sir.

There's no sense in denying the truth... I think I have a pretty good record of being honest, I'm not sure about you though.

Quote:You claim to have some faith in God, correct? If so, why doubt his integrity? We all have our purposes, and to claim to be a joke not only demeans yourself, but it also mocks God.

I tend to think he's got a good sense of humor, otherwise I wouldn't have ended up where I am now in life.

Quote:I found it quite amusing after all this shit you've given Amanda/Jadame over the years.

I guess you're intentionally being obtuse, but most people realized long ago that Jadame and I

"shout" at each other in IRC because we're fucking around and having fun... I guess you'd have to actually have friends to know what I'm talking about, xptek.

---