Try not to mix soft shading into it, while you're at it... Soft shading and cell shading look terrible in the same image. Things like eyes make sense, but having clothes cell-shaded while skin is soft shaded makes absolutely no sense and displays a sense of detachment from the image, as if it was two separate pieces pasted together.

Just as a rule of thumb!

When you get into the eyes, don't be afraid to have a little color variation such as moving from lighter to darker shades.
